The politicians are making a mistake in forcing the opening of the campaign at this time of the year. The people are not ready for activity in politics. The general public is just now engaged in the tedious task of gathering up the raveled ends of business and do not want attention taken from the work in hand. The farmers are too busy with crop cultivation and garnering to stop to discuss politics. In fact no one is ready for the campaign save the politicians. And unless all signs are at fault this class will have really less to do this year than ever before in the history of the country. Forcing an active campaign on the public may result in disaster to the party that forces the issues. Two months would be ample time for all the politics the country can stand. Consequently September would be plenty early enough to open the political batteries, the people will be more or less independent this year anyway and will do very much as they please regardless of the rantings at the huskings.

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia legislature to "protect men against the wiles and banishments of women." It provides that whenever a man is lured into marriage by the use of "rata," pads, paints, open-work stockings, V-shaped corsets and peek-a-boo waist, said marriage shall be illegal and proper grounds for divorce. If such a law should be placed on the Kentucky statute books, there would be a regular stampede by fellows who would want to sit on the juries at every term of court, consequently would not only serve to protect the bridegrooms from being "ensnared" by the fair sex but would also save circuit judges and sheriffs much time in securing enough veniremen.

Now that the two great parties have nominated their candidates for president and vice president—Taft and Sherman by the republicans and Bryan and Kern by the democrats—the newspapers are chock full of matter pertaining to the short-comings of each other's platform, and a suffering public will have to stand the prattle until next November. Why don't each party set forth its own good points (if it has any) instead of seeking flaws in the other? But doubtless it is less work to find fault with the other fellow than look for good points on their own side of the fence.

A man up in Toronto was assured by the attending physician that he must die and advised that he should make his peace with all things earthly. Immediately the candidate for the services of the undertaker sent for his divorced wife and was remarried to her, and got well. His better half will for ever have the evidence at hand that he could not live without her.

Nearly everything comes in canned packages. There are canned editorial for the busy newspaper man and canned sermons for the minister and canned music. In fact there are dozens of canned things that do not come under the pure food law. It is very much to be regretted that some of the miscellaneous things are not subject to the operations of the law.

Mere book education is worth but little to the average individual. But it should not be understood that any discredit is placed on the person of mere books. Information gained from the combined wisdom of past ages is of inestimable value to those who have the native ability to rightly apply what has been learned from books.

A friendship that is nothing more than mere words is worth nothing to any one. Friendship to be worth the name must be ready to bind up the wounds of misfortune and minister to the needs of those who may have fallen by the wayside. Anything short of this is nothing more than empty professions.

The press bureaus of each political party will now get busy and furnish ready-made editorials for the newspapers. This boiler plate and cut-and-dried "copy" is sent broadcast, and it is nothing unusual to see the same editorials in many papers, all worked off of course, as original matter.

A preacher down in Atlanta has started a crusade against the delivery of ice on Sunday. The chances are that his sermons are such cold propositions that he rightly reasons that all who attend his church will be so cold that they will not need any ice for the remainder of the day.

There is a summer in this summer that makes one hope that there is no heat hotter than this. But speaking of the weather, it is not out of place to remark that this is mighty good corn temperature. Nothing like taking philosophically, even the heated spells

It is a mighty desirable accomplishment to be able to forget quickly the vampish rantings of the faint under. He no doubt has some place in the economy of the universe and with this understanding of the situation just let the matter rest.

It takes sixty doctors to look after the health of the Mikado. With that number wrangling over any possible malady he should have ample opportunity to recover before final decision as to the kind of medicine to be administered.

The authoress of "How to Keep a Husband" is now suing her husband for divorce. She should add another chapter to her book and change the title to "How to Keep a Husband If You Want Him."

It is doubtful if morality can under any circumstances be legislated into the individual. Education is the better and more lasting way of putting persons beyond the power of temptation.

Perhaps absolute good form would frown at the man in his shirt sleeves, but good common sense will just wink at the fellow who bolts good form on a hot summer day.

The brutality of the majority is without reason, nor is it ever good politics. It never hurts anyone to be fair and honest with the other fellow, though one may not agree with him.

The individual who will persist in discussion of the weather conditions should be condemned to solitary confinement without the benefit of clergy or mint Jujubes.

After much wrangling and an act of Congress that motto is back on the gold coin. The chances are that mighty few people have ever missed it.

Only politeness restrains the man with indigestion from licking the man who says the world is growing better.

The man with the photographic smile probably thinks he is looking pleasant and hopes others notice it.

Appetites have a way of remaining sharp despite the dullness of the times.

Fresh air will cure most all of our ills but poverty.

A Faithful Officer.

Mr Joe E. Robinson, county attorney for Garrard county, has decided, after much solicitation by his friends, to become a candidate for re-election to this very important position.

The Record is greatly pleased to announce this fact, for several reasons. In the first place, Mr. Robinson is a man of exceptional ability, being a lawyer of close study and hard work. He is honest and honorable, and has given his very best talents to the discharge of the many duties incumbent upon the attorney elected by the people to look after their interests. He has treated all cases alike, playing no favorites and prosecuting every man with the same zeal and energy that he could.

The meeting conducted by Rev. Mr. Shouse, at Herring's school house is being well attended and much good has been accomplished. Mr. Shouse, who is pastor at the Fork Church, is a minister of marked ability and is doing a great work in the county. He is being assisted at this meeting by Mr. Willette, of Paris, a cornetist of great ability. Mr. Willette, who by the way is a man of means, spends most of his time traveling over the county and using his cornet in protracted meetings, hoping in this way to lend a helping hand towards bringing sinners into the fold. He is a splendid gentleman, and is doing great work.

A DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

The Gleaners Hold Open Session

Good Papers Read, Interesting
Cards Received.

It is the most enjoyable entertainment given in Lancaster in many years was the open session by the Gleaners, at the Christian church Tuesday evening. The organization is composed of ladies living in Lancaster, who meet every four weeks for the discussion of interesting and beneficial topics. Papers and history are read by different members, and the meetings are of inestimable value and benefit. The meeting Tuesday evening was presided over by Mrs. Emma Kauffman, who filled the office of president with a grace and dignity highly complimented by the large audience. The session was opened with prayer by Mrs. Kauffman, after which Mrs. Fred P. Fribble, the efficient secretary, read the minutes of the preceding meeting. Mrs. Rogers then pleased the audience with two vocal solos, her sweet, sympathetic voice going straight to the hearts of the charmed listeners. Mr. W. B. West presided at the pipe organ in a most creditable manner. The papers were of especial interest to every citizen of Lancaster, containing much history and interesting matter difficult to obtain, and matter which should be preserved by every citizen now living here or who ever lived in the good old town of Lancaster. The following papers and writers were on the program: "Early History of Lancaster," Mrs. John M. Farra; "The Churches of Lancaster," Mrs. F. P. Fribble; "The Schools and Newspapers of Lancaster," Mrs. J. B. Kinnard. Mrs. Jenny West had prepared a most excellent paper on "Future of Lancaster," but a recent bereavement in the family prevented her appearance. A splendid poem by Mrs. Eugenia Dunlap Potts was then read by Mrs. Ed C. Gaines, and then came the reading of greetings sent the Club by former Lancaster people. These were especially good and interesting and were greatly enjoyed. These were read by Mrs. George D. Robinson. Mrs. Rogers then delighted the audience with other selections especially suited to the occasion, and the audience was dismissed after spending a most enjoyable evening. The Record regrets that lack of time and space prevents a more lengthy write up of the entertainment, and we hope in the near future to reproduce some of the papers read, as the data and history contained therein is of inestimable value to people who love their home town (and they all do) and will be read and preserved for future generations to see what Lancaster has done in the past. The Record extends its most hearty congratulations to the lovely ladies upon the great success of the Club, and predicts that its future will be as successful as has been the past, and that is saying a great deal, for no organization has brought more pleasure, and, we must say, profit, to its members and the public, also.

Good Meeting at Herring's.

The meeting conducted by Rev. Mr. Shouse, at Herring's school house is being well attended and much good has been accomplished. The editor of The Record is deeply grateful for the kind references made, at meeting of the Gleaners, to his humble efforts, and trusts that he will be able to merit some of the good things the ladies were kind enough to say of him. Mrs. Dolly Brown,

Farm and Stock.

The Crab Orchard fair will pay a dividend this year.

Threshing is about completed in Central Kentucky. Average of about half a crop is reported.

Son's cattle never get too old to consider it beneath their dignity of their years to jump over a fence.

Danville court was exceedingly dull Monday. Only a few cattle on the market, and those had slow sale.

The Danville Advocate says Thomas Metcalfe sold to Louisville parties 60 cattle at $6.40 which weighed 1,370.

In some parts of the country the roads are either bad because they have been newly worked, or because they have not been worked.

Harbour News.—Clarence Lebus, of Harrison county sold to James Well 52 head of fine export cattle, averaging 1,000 pounds at 6 cents per pound.

Scarcity of labor has caused much trouble again this season. It seems that the importation of foreigners is the only solution of this important problem.

The Stanford Journal says W. O. Walker's handsome two year-old by Preston sprained an elbow and could not be shown at the Crab Orchard fair last week.

Every farmer should attend the county fairs, as they are good stock, all kinds of improved machinery and get many good pointers from mingling with brother farmers.

At Versailles on Saturday wheat and corn were selling at same price, 85c. The yield of wheat is disappointing, about 70 per cent. of usual yield. Oats are poor, Timothy good.

Fifteen sheep belonging to Solomon L. Van Meter, of Fayette, were killed by being poisoned with Paris green which had been spread on the grass by some unknown person, who is supposed to have had a grudge against Mr. Van Meter.

An effort is being made by officials in New York city to find locations for foreign laborers upon farms in the country. This is a good move, and should be carried to a successful end, as colored help is almost a thing of the past.

Down in Shelby county the onion growers have formed an organization. The growing of onions in that section has become an important industry and the Society was formed for purpose of interchange of ideas and of obtaining a better and uniform prices for the product.

The French gardening methods by which an acre of ground is made to yield $2,434 to $2,200 per annum by the forcing hot bed process has been introduced in England. Vegetables are produced all the year and are forced by a steady temperature of 90 degrees.

C. C. Clarke, of Bourbon county, sold forty export steers at six cents per pound; sold 9,000 bushels of blue grass seed for August delivery; at 75 cents per bushel and 1,200 bushels of wheat at 85 cents; he also bought two weanling mules for October delivery at $150 each.

Mr. Sterling Gazette.—Farmers are beginning to buy feeding cattle in this county, and are paying very high prices for them. A number of sales were made the past week at 42, 44, 5, 52, and 54 cents, something unprecedented at this season of the year. Feeders were purchased for October delivery at $150 each.

According to information received from local officials of the Queen & Crescent Railway, there has never been such a supply of fruits of various kinds shipped from the South to Northern and Eastern markets as is being handled this year. The railroad has put on four special fast fruit trains between Chattanooga and Cincinnati which will operate during the fruit season.

The South produces 2/3 of the cotton crop of the world. The average annual value of the crop raised in the Southern states is more than $700,000,000. So far as cotton goods are concerned the cotton producing States practically clothe the world. Our cotton opens to us the market of every nation on earth. It is the key to "the open door." And the Farmers' Union is going to take this key out of the hands of the speculators and keep it in their own custody.

The wheat farms of the Northwest are beginning to see the necessity for organization. Heretofore they have been at the mercy of elevator men and speculators, just as the cotton producers of the South had been before the organization of the Farmers' Union. Against the speculators who handle the bulk of these crops the isolated and unorganized farmers have no show for a square deal. Organization is not a mere matter of choice, but a necessity and the sooner effected the better.

IN THE HEART OF THE BLUE GRASS."
